

Meet Rebecca Suffoletto, Director of STEM & Instructional Coaching

Rebecca Suffoletto is an educator, STEM specialist, instructional coaching leader, and a respected colleague in New York State. She has worked in the field of education for over 20 years and has held the positions of math teacher, master math teacher, instructional coach, and instructional leadership coach. She has a reputation graced with the desire to see every student succeed and was often over a 90% passing rate for New York State Regents Exams in all mathematical areas. Rebecca's professional passions lie in coaching teachers and administrators, as well as doing all things in math, science, and technology.