

Meet Erik Francis

Erik Francis is the owner and lead professional education specialist for Maverik Education LLC, providing professional development, guidance, and support in teaching and learning for cognitive rigor. His other interests include college and career readiness, higher-order thinking and training, and the depth of knowledge model. Erik has worked in the field of education for over 20 years as a middle and high school English language arts and math teacher, a site based administrator, and an education program specialist in the Title I unit for the state department of education. Erik is based in Arizona and can be found on Twitter at @maverikcrq or by visiting: www.maverikeducation.com.

His best-selling book is:

