Meet “Linebacker Dad”

(a.k.a. Joe Smith)

Linebacker Dad doesn’t mess around. He is all in for building parent and community capacity! Youth Development and Parent Involvement are Linebacker DAD’s gifts. Linebacker DAD creates positive opportunities in schools, school districts and communities. Through collaborative efforts . . . parents, teachers, staff, and students are given skills to thrive. Now that is what we call a major effective huttle! Consider Linebacker DAD, a K-12 education “Swiss Army Knife,” for growing capacity in your community. He can and will bring everyone together on the same playing field and strategically work hard to raise student achievement and give students the support that they not only need, but are sorely missing and want so badly! Follow the movement and help families advocate and create the best outcomes for their student’s success. Linebacker dad is based in California and can be found on Twitter at @Linebacker_Dad or at www.LineBackerDad.com.

Parents + Schools + Districts = Success Partners
